

MBA 683 : New Product Development

This course will focus on the design and marketing of new products. The process of new product generation will be followed from conceptualization to the marketing of that new product. Area to be covered will include: innovation strategy, opportunity identification, testing new products, introducing new products, and profit management.

Prerequisite Courses

MBA 576

Advising Note

Take MBA-576;