

NSG 649 : Transforming Advanced Practice Roles

This course synthesizes the practice, leadership, management, research, and teaching knowledge into role application for functioning in the dynamic health care environment. The future trends in health care impact this role and the fulfillment of the role depth, competence, cohesiveness, and flexibility across the health care continuum. Theories from administration, management, economics, consultation, and teaching, with emphasis on initiation of change and delivery system trends will be explored. Students will work in groups across nursing specialties to develop evidence based collaborative projects.
