

NTR 562 : Weight Management

The course will examine the epidemic of obesity and how various behavioral and environmental factors place individuals at risk of becoming overweight. Sources of influence as well as management options to enable long-term patient compliance and sustained success will be discussed.